DETAILED ACTION

Specification

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-10,12-22 and 24-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by D'Arlach et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,026,433).

D'Arlach teaches the invention as claimed including a method, a system and a corresponding CGI computer program for generating a web site with dynamic content data from an external source integrated therein (see D'Arlach, Abstract).

3. In reference to claims 1,12,13 and 24-28, D'Arlach teaches the above method comprising the steps of:

Receiving data entry (column 2 lines 30-50 & column 5 lines 14-67, D'Arlach discloses data entry);

Determining one or more characteristics for each of one or more web site dimensions in accordance with the data entry (columns 5 & 6, D'Arlach discloses determining characteristics of web site attributes);

Generating a description of the web site based upon the one or more determined characteristics for each of the one or more web site dimensions (column 5 lines 45-67 & column 6, D'Arlach discloses generating database elements which contain a description and keywords of the website);

Retrieving web site data including dynamic content data from an external data source in accordance with the generated description of the web site (column 5 lines 1-35 & column 7 lines 1-50, D'Arlach discloses retrieving web site data from an external server);

Generating one or more pages of the web site based upon the description of the web site and the retrieved web site data (column 9 & column 10 lines 1-10, D'Arlach discloses generating the web site); and Presenting the generated web site (column 6 lines 35-67 & columns 9&10).

4. In reference to claims 2 and 14, D'Arlach teaches the method as claimed in claim 1, wherein the external data source is a web site (column 7 lines 20-40, D'Arlach discloses selecting a web site from a URL list or importing an HTML file form a web site).
5. In reference to claims 3 and 15, D'Arlach teaches the method as claimed in claim 1, wherein the description defines a format of the dynamic content data (column 5 lines 45-67 & column 6, D'Arlach discloses the description database defining visual elements of the data).
6. In reference to claims 4 and 16, D'Arlach teaches the method as claimed in claim 3, wherein the format of the dynamic content data includes a look and feel of the dynamic content data (column 5 lines 45-67 & column 6, D'Arlach discloses the visual elements of the data containing look and feel data).

7. In reference to claims 5 and 17, D'Arlach teaches the method as claimed in claim 3, wherein the format of the dynamic content data is different from a received format of the dynamic content data from the external data source (column 5 lines 45-67, columns 6 & 7, D'Arlach discloses the visual elements of the data being different from the visual elements of the data from the external source).

8. In reference to claims 6 and 18, D'Arlach teaches the method as claimed in claim 3, wherein the format of the dynamic content data matches a format of the web site (column 5 lines 45-67, column 6, D'Arlach discloses the visual elements of the data matching the visual elements of a web site template).

9. In reference to claims 7 and 19, D'Arlach teaches the method as claimed in claim 6, wherein the format of the web site is defined by at least one of the characteristics of at least one of the web site dimensions (column 5 lines 14-67, column 6, D'Arlach discloses the visual elements of the web site template being edited in accordance to web site attributes).

10. In reference to claims and 20 8, D'Arlach teaches the method as claimed in claim 1, further comprising the step of storing the description of the web site (column 5, D'Arlach discloses storing web site elements in a database).

11. In reference to claims 9 and 21, D'Arlach teaches the method as claimed in claim 1, wherein the data entry includes one or more user preferences (column 7 lines 50-67 and columns 8 & 9, D'Arlach discloses user preferences).

12. In reference to claims 10 and 22, D'Arlach teaches the method as claimed in claim 1, wherein the data entry includes one or more user profiles (column 10, D'Arlach discloses a user owner profile which can be changed).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

13. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

14. Claims 11 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over D'Arlach et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,026,433) in view of Burge et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,014,638).

D'Arlach teaches the method of claims 1 and 13 above. D'Arlach fails to teach wherein the data entry includes one or more navigation histories. However, Burge teaches using navigation history to customize computer displays (column 3, lines 45-67).

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify D'Arlach by making the data entry comprised of navigation histories as per the teachings of Burge so as to customize the web site in accordance with the navigation history.

Conclusion

15. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
